

Friend or Foe Chapter 6

Use the table below to help you to plan and draft your balanced argument.

What is the argument about? Start with a question and introduce the topic
First point for Second point for Third point for
First point against Second point against Third point against Conclusion

Use the vocabulary in the table below to help you with the planning of your balanced argument.

firstly	also	in addition to this	as a consequence	some people might argue that it is believed that	however	alternatively	by comparison	likewise
moreover	one example of this is...	on the other hand..	to summarise	in conclusion

When you have written your balanced argument, use the success criteria below to reflect on what you have done well and what your possible next steps will be.

I think...	Success Menu	An adult thinks...
	An engaging introduction with a question to introduce the topic
	Paragraphs for the argument, with evidence and facts to support ideas
	Paragraphs against the argument, with evidence to support ideas Formal, impersonal language e.g. It can be argued that...Many believe that...
	Conjunctions to support ideas e.g. In addition to this, As a consequence...
	Conjunctions to move to a different opinion e.g. However...Alternatively...
	Conclusion to summarise	